The image shows a screenshot of a software window titled "Add Contact". The window has a standard Windows-style title bar with minimize, maximize, and close buttons. Below the title bar, there is a tabbed interface with three tabs: "Personal Information", "Work Information", and "Notes". The "Work Information" tab is currently selected. Inside this tab, there is a section titled "Work" which contains several input fields and options. On the left side of the "Work" section, there are labels for "Company:", "Title/Position:", "Address:", "City:", "State/Province:", "Country:", and "E-Mail:", each followed by a text input field. The "Address:" field is split into three stacked input boxes. To the right of these fields, there are two dropdown menus. The first dropdown is labeled "Work" and has a downward arrow; next to it is an empty text input field. The second dropdown is labeled "Fax" and also has a downward arrow; next to it is another empty text input field. Below the "E-Mail:" field, there is a radio button labeled "Primary e-mail address" which is currently selected. Below that, there is a checkbox labeled "Use work as my primary postal address" which is currently unchecked. At the bottom of the window, there is a checkbox labeled "Send My Address Card to this Contact". To the right of this checkbox are two buttons: "Save" and "Cancel".
